Don't You Know

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the Liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

From Rev. M. B. Wharton, Baltimore, Md. "It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to the great virtues of Simmons Liver Regulator. I have had experience with it, as occasion demanded, for many years, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation."

Horses That Wear Veils.

The oddest things to be seen in the streets of Colorado Springs are horses decked with veils. We have become accustomed to the jaunty little hats worn by many horses in our towns to protect them from the heat of the sun. We can even see an umbrella fastened over their heads without surprise, but a veil gives to the noble beast a dandylish look that is very droll. Some of these veils, belonging to fine saddles, are mere fringes of fine strips of leather that hang before the eyes. Others are pieces of mosquito netting drawn tightly back and fastened like a woman's nose veil, but the most stylish and altogether effective are of netting drawn over a hoop which holds it away from the eyes, yet completely protects them.

These exaggerated goggles give the gravest horse a waggish look. The veils are not worn for fashion's sake. They are indeed a stern necessity, and the comfort—if not even the life—of the horse demands it. Colorado, with all its great attractions, has one place—the plague of flies. Flies of all sizes, from the least up to the enormous bluebottle, are everywhere. Most parts of his body the horse can himself protect if not deprived of his tail, but his eyes he cannot, and these delicate organs are special objects of attack by the fly tribe. It is the least a man can do to provide a veil for his most faithful servant.—National Issue.

A Haunted Church.

About five miles west of Stevens' store, in Boone county, there stands two churchhouses on opposite sides of the road called Twin Churches. One of the churches has been a subject of curiosity and wonder for several years. It is believed by all citizens about Stevens' store that the church is haunted. One very reputable citizen, when we asked him what he knew about it, said: "Yes, something very supernatural about that church. A man was killed there several years ago, and ever since that the pictures of several men with drawn swords can be seen at any time of day in the glass over the door." When we asked, "Did you ever see the picture?" he replied: "Yes, dozens of them. I have seen it from the gate while sitting on my horse." We asked one of the oldest citizens what he could tell about it. "Oh, yes," said he, "the picture is there. I have seen it many times, but the man was not murdered there. He committed suicide. I could only see the picture of two plain men, but they were very plain. Why," said he, "thousands of people have seen it, and it annoyed them so they had to remove the glass and put in a new one, and yet it was the same thing, and they changed the glass several times, but the pictures were there all the same."—Mexico (Mo.) Intelligencer.

Mrs. Disraeli's Economy.

Of the rigid economy practiced by Mrs. Disraeli, there is one very good story told: Mrs. Disraeli and her husband had come down from London to spend the Easter vacation at Hugsenden and had called on the various tradesmen at Wycombe to order the groceries and other requirements for their 10 days' or fortnight's stay. It so happened that their sojourn was rather abruptly shortened, and Mrs. Disraeli was seen calling at the grocers and other purveyors, taking out of the carriage the nonconsumed wares, and asking the shopkeepers to receive them back and have them reweighed, and so to make a reduction in their accounts.

The great statesman, with folded arms, was leaning back in the carriage perfectly nonchalant, but evidently desirous to have no share in the frugal transaction. Such rigid economy was no longer required after the old lady who so admired his books died and left him her entire fortune, amounting to over £40,000.—London Tit-Bits.

A Rare Cloak.

Some very unusual lots were included at Christie's in the interesting and valuable collection of embroideries, rare furs, jewelry and curiosities collected by the Earl of Dunmore during his exploration in Chinese Turkestan, the Pameers and central Asia. Great interest was manifested in a cloak formed of the skins of 741 Chinese wild ducks' throats. It was made by a native of Chinese Tartary, who was occupied for 12 years in the collection of the skins. The only other cloak of this description was made by the same man and is now in the possession of the emperor of China at Peking. Even for the privilege of rivaling an emperor only 40 guineas was paid!—London News.

The "Wonder-Wonder."

The Malayan peninsula is the home of an extraordinary botanical curiosity in the shape of a flower which is simply a blossom without leaves, vine or stem, and which grows as a parasite on decaying wood, etc. It is known to the natives by a name equivalent to "wonder-wonder." This extraordinary flowerlike growth is sometimes as much as 3 feet in diameter, with a globular central cup, having a capacity of about five to seven quarts. This cup distills a fetid liquid with an odor similar to that of decaying meat. Botanists believe that the odor is calculated to attract flies and secure proper fertilization.—St. Louis Republic.

OCEAN TROLLEY.

Latest Plan to Send Great Ships Spinning Across the Sea.

It is pretty well understood that the limit of speed in ocean steamers is about reached if the present models are adhered to, and that if there is to be any gain in swiftness it must be by the trial of a new form. The difficulty is to devise a vessel of which the structural strength shall be great enough to carry the massive engines requisite for increased speed and at the same time to resist the force of the ocean storms. If the sea were calm, there would be no difficulty in increasing the speed of the "ocean greyhounds," but with the tremendous force of waves and storms it is not possible to do this with the present models.

It is not impossible that the solution of the problem lies in the submarine ship, and that the passenger steamer of the future will go under water instead of across its surface. The advance made in the planning and working of submarine boats in the last 10 years makes this seem not wholly impossible, as it must have looked once, and there is no doubt that the freedom from the effects of surface storms would allow a swiftness which could hardly be arrived at on the surface. It might also solve the question of seasickness, as it is probable that submarine locomotion would be much smoother and less disturbing to the stomach than the present method of traveling. All that one can say, however, is that we shall see what we shall see.

Perhaps the steamer of the future will be operated on a trolley by means of a submarine cable. The advantages of this plan would be great, as it would prevent the necessity of carrying immense quantities of fuel and of keeping the vessel loaded down with enormous engines. All the delay and difficulty and expense of managing furnaces and engines on board ship would be done away with by the oceanic trolley system, and the ship could be made so much lighter that it could go whizzing across the ocean in a couple of days. Danger of accident could be brought to be no greater than it is at present by having a sufficient number of repair steamers on the route, which could keep the cables in repair, and in case of any accident to the trolley could bring the passenger boat into port or put it again in connection with the cable.

There can be no question that the proper means of crossing the Atlantic quickly is by some system which will allow the motive power to be applied from the shore, either by a trolley or a cable. The limit of speed for ships that carry engines and fuel is certainly practically reached on the surface, and there are difficulties in the way of submarine navigation which it would be hard to conquer. The trolley system is capable of great extension, and we may yet live to go to Europe by its means.—Boston Courier.

Augustine Brohan.

One day on leaving the stage Augustine Brohan happened to find two fellow artists discussing a subject which seemed to be extremely engrossing. On questioning them as to the topic of conversation:

"We are speaking of the creation," they said.

"I was not living at that time," she answered, smiling. And then added, with a very serious face, "You had better ask Mme. Allan about it."

This lady, who was one of her rivals on the stage, was often the object of her jokes. Of course Augustine Brohan had many adversaries at the Comedie Francaise. The unsparing nature of her wit and her brilliant success as an artist were sufficient to give rise to petty quarrels. She used her power of repartee to rid herself of her assailants.

On one occasion one of them came to her and said laughingly, as if she had a joke to tell:

"My dear, let me tell you some stupid thing to make you laugh."

"You have only to open your mouth," said Augustine, with an assumption of calm indifference.—Fortnightly Review.

Lightning's Singular Freaks.

Lightning strokes frequently result in blindness, deafness or paralysis. Sometimes the lightning assails a single object on a man's person without apparently touching the man himself. Coins have been melted into they stuck together in a man's pocket while he suffered no ill consequences. Keys, watches and watch chains, metal cartridges and eyeglass frames have been more or less damaged while the person who wore them was almost uninjured. There have been many cases where clothing has been almost demolished without injury to its wearer. Iron pegs have been pulled out of shoes, and rubber boots have been destroyed frequently. The brass eyelets were torn out of a Georgia man's shoes, but he felt only a slight and harmless shock.—New York Evening Sun.

The Daily Petition.

There are men in New York and Brooklyn who are called clipper-sand whose business is to cut off the back hair of schoolgirls. There is a peculiar significance in the prayers of these young women when they utter the words, "Give us this day our daily bread."—Boston Transcript.

Stories of the Old Townsends.

Richard and Dorothy Townsend in writing the chronicles of their family speak of one branch whose members were once among the principal gentry of the west of England; yet, the story goes, when money was granted by the grand jury to them for improving the highways they used to lay the coins in rows on the ground and call on the passersby to swear that they had seen the money "laid out on the road."

But queer stories may be told of most of the old families. One very hospitable Mrs. Townsend loved to keep open house, and when carload after carload of cousins were seen driving up the avenue an astonished visitor asked the hostess where she could possibly bestow so many guests. "Ah," she answered, "I needn't trouble at all. I've a very obliging cook and a very accommodating butler, and they'll each take two or three in their beds."

All were not so hospitable, and the opposite extreme from this good old lady was a Mr. Townsend who had a fine place entered by a beautiful avenue of trees.

One day a friend met him and said, "I was caught in a storm the other day near your house, and I sheltered myself under that big oak in the avenue."

"Ah, now, 'tis a pity you stopped there," exclaimed Mr. Townsend; "if only you'd gone 20 yards farther down the road, you'd have found a much thicker tree."—Youth's Companion.

Dean Swift as an Autocrat.

Partly from respect for his abilities, partly from the actual value of his assistance, partly from amusement at the novelty of the thing, the great world surrendered itself as to a conqueror. Dean Swift never flattered. When told that the Duke of Buckingham desired his acquaintance, he answered that the duke has not made sufficient advances to him yet. When asked to a dinner party by a secretary of state, he insists upon drawing up a list of the company. Even ladies have to bow beneath the yoke. However beautiful, wealthy or high-born, they must always appear as supplicants for Dr. Swift's acquaintance. Even then his rule is far from easy.

"Lady Burlington," says he, "I hear you can sing. Sing me a song." Her ladyship presents such an unceremonious address and refuses. "Why, madam," says Swift, "I suppose you take me for one of your poor English hedge parsons. Sing, when I bid you." As Lord Burlington only laughs, the lady bursts into tears and leaves the room. This does not soften Swift. He meets her a few days after. "Pray, madam, are you so proud and ill-natured now as when I last saw you?" is his greeting. The man's fascination is so strong that all yield to him.—Dean Swift and His Writings.

The Virus of Bees.

A Vienna scientist has made a series of interesting experiments with the virus of such insects as bees and wasps, and comes to the conclusion that the effectiveness of the irritating substance depends largely upon the mood of the insect. A drop of the fluid taken from the poison bag of a dead hornet, for instance, produces a slight itching, but nothing resembling the inflammation caused by a hornet's sting with a much smaller quantity of the same virus. This theory is supported by the curious fact that under the influence of rage the saliva of all sorts of otherwise harmless animals can become virulent enough to produce alarming and even fatal symptoms. Death by blood poisoning has more than once resulted from the bite of a wounded squirrel, a chipmunk or a caged rat.—Baltimore Times.

Just Like a New Englander.

"Yas, sir," said the nasal circomerone who was showing the saunterer over a Maine village. "Yas, sir-ee, we have some queer critters here. Naow, there's that feller Jones that jest come outer their haouse there. Why, he kep' his wife there tew whole months 'bout a buryin' of 'er. Don't believe it, dew yew? But it's a fact jest 'thar. 'N what's worse, no one in town done a thing 'bout it. They didn't even speak tew Jones." "But," said the astonished saunterer, "haven't you any physicians or any coroner's jury here?" "Yas," answered the guide as he closed his fingers over the expected fee, "but 'twarn't no case fer them. She warn't dead!"—Boston Budget.

One Way of Looking at a Crowd.

A gentleman who had promised to meet his wife in a large establishment where all sorts of things are sold at low prices was making his way through the throng of women. Forced to pause for a moment near a counter behind which stood a pretty saleswoman, he blurted out:

"Is there anything on earth that would reconcile a man to such a crowd as this?"

"Yes, sir," was the quick reply. "Belonging to the firm."—Exchange.

Fond Mother—For gracious sake, John, that child has got your watch in her mouth and will swallow it! John (bachelor brother-in-law and very fond of babies)—Don't be the least alarmed, Mary, I've got hold of the chain; it can't go far.—London Tit-Bits.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

No speech made since the opening of the extra session has been as much talked about as the one made this week by Senator Sherman. It was in some respects one of the most radical ever delivered in the Senate. For instance, when he said: "If Mr. Carlisle does his duty he will at once, to-day or to-morrow or at the earliest hour, stop the expenditure of all money where it is not fixed by law and where it is not imperative. He ought to suspend the erection of all public buildings and public improvements." Should Secretary Carlisle act upon that advice without being specifically directed by Congress to do so he would precipitate a row that would be far more dangerous than the one now on hand over silver, and Senator Sherman's party associates would be the first to attack him. A Senator speaking of that portion of Mr. Sherman's speech said: "I cannot regard that advice as more than a bluff to secure votes for the Voorhees bill. It is true that Secretary Carlisle estimates a deficit of $50,000,000 at the close of the current fiscal year, but even if there were a deficit of that amount at this time, the Secretary of the Treasury would not be justified in assuming such extraordinary authority. Congress is in session and will provide means to meet this deficit before it adjourns, regardless of what disposition it makes of the silver question, and you may be sure that it would resist any such assumption of authority as that proposed by Mr. Sherman; the people also, regardless of politics, would resent having the millions of dollars now regularly paid out each month for wages and material on public buildings and improvements cut off by a stroke of the pen. It would be worse than cruel for the government of the wealthiest country in the world to add to existing suffering on the eve of winter. It would be more statesmanlike to provide for the spending of more money on public works than to cut off what is now being spent."

This week will be remembered a long time by the members of the Senate. To begin with, a lot of the Senators were put in a bad humor by the success of President Cleveland in preventing a compromise on silver after it was almost agreed upon, a success that later brought down upon Mr. Cleveland's head this sharp language from Senator Morgan: "When you leave the executive mansion and come here to guide us in legislation, you must not feel at all affronted if we take up the veto power and use it on you. You shall not interfere with us." During the entire week personal bickerings have been almost constant on the floor of the Senate, between the friends and opponents of the Voorhees bill. The most significant event of the week, however, was the way the silver Democrats put the administration Democrats, as the friends of the Voorhees bill are called, on the defensive, by proposing a Democratic caucus to settle the silver question, every man who attended the caucus to be bound by its decision. The administration Senators declined to sign the call, but enough names were secured to get the caucus without their signatures, but they will not of course, be bound by its action. Senator Vest originated the idea and circulated the call. Another silver Democrat said of it: "We got tired of listening to the twaddle about the rule of the majority which has been fired at us by administration Senators. We believe in the true rule of the majority; they don't. The Democrats are in the majority in the Senate and are entitled to the control of legislation. In only one way can that be done, and that is the way we propose—by holding a caucus and allowing the majority to map out a programme. That we wish to do and the administration Senators fear to do. That's the whole business in a nut shell." This was a clever move on the part of the silver Democrats although they ran no risk, as a majority of the Democratic Senators are with them.

A curious and rather suspicious state of affairs has lately come to light in connection with the gold reserve fund of the Treasury. Although no gold has been shipped to Europe that fund has dropped off about $1,000,000 in a few weeks. Investigations by National Bank examiners show that the holdings of gold by the big Eastern banks have within the same period increased exactly the amount that the Treasury Fund has decreased. From this it would seem that these banks gobble up the gold that has lately been paid out by the Treasury and look it up in their vaults, instead of allowing it to remain in circulation and eventually find its way back into the Treasury, as most of it would have done.

The House this week passed the

McCreary bill amending the Geary law; the Cox bill prohibiting National Banks loaning money to their officers or employees without the consent of a majority of a quorum of their board of directors, and a bill repealing the law requiring loyalty to be proved by applicants for bounty lands.

COUNTY ITEMS.

Charles and George Ingram of Petaluma have been arrested on a charge of horse stealing.

City Treasurer Mulligan of Healdsburg was called up out of bed and overpowered by two men in that town at 4 o'clock on Friday morning of last week and compelled to accompany them to the City Hall at the point of a pistol.

Upon reaching his office he was forced to open the safe, and the robbers helped themselves to $3,500, belonging to the city. Mulligan was then taken to the City Cemetery and handcuffed to a madrone tree by his captors, who then made off with their booty. This in substance is Mulligan's story, but it is not believed by everybody in Healdsburg, and it is even said by some in authority that Treasurer Mulligan robbed the vaults, secreted the money and then handcuffed himself to the tree.

SUNSTRUCK IN BATTLE!

DR. MILES' MEDICAL CO., ELKHART, IND.—I must say the Restorative Nervine and Nerve and Liver Pills have done me great good.

FOR YEARS I HAVE NOT FELT AS WELL AS NOW.

The starting point of my disease was a sunstroke received in battle before Fort Hudson, Louisiana, June 18th, 1881. Up to the time of beginning to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine I had had a constant neuralgic pain in my head; also, week spells, and the past four years I have had to give up everything of an active character, and stay in the house for the most part of the time.

THE CURED CANNOT TELL YOU HOW YOUR REMEDIES HAVE CURED ME, and that the cure will be permanent. Several of my friends are using your remedies, and all speak well of them.

Yours truly, COL. C. W. DEAN.

Columbus Outdone.

COLUMBUS OUTDONE is the title of a well illustrated book of 200 pages, just issued, to record the surprising adventures of Capt. William A. Andrews in his trip across the ocean in a boat 14 feet long, and aptly called the "Sapolo"—because she "secured the seas!" The preface claims that "the example of intelligent daring is never lost on the world," and that "four-fifths of the so-called dangers of life are trifles if met with courage, resolution and common sense."

Thos. S. Cooper left for Zillah, Yakima county, Washington, yesterday, where he will permanently locate. Mr. Cooper is a Native Son, being the first white American child born in Sonoma county, his birthplace being on the Cooper farm a few miles southwest of town, where he has resided almost continually ever since his birth. He leaves many relatives and friends in this valley who sincerely regret his departure.

The following guests registered at the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen, this week: Louis Fuesler, J. H. Jones, J. B. Gallagher, F. L. Schenell, Mr. and Mrs. E. Fay, J. J. Liebert and wife, R. Herring, J. Douglas, George Pike, David Hanlin and wife, San Francisco; Jas. A. Campbell, Oakland; R. D. Holohit, Sacramento; C. Graham, artist, New York Weekly; M. J. Van Gaasbeek, New York City; Chas. J. Smith, Chicago; H. Chauwell, Detroit, Michigan; E. E. Harlow and wife, Stockton.

Humphrey Hill of Glen Ellen was in town last Monday and was cordially greeted by many Sonoma friends. Mr. Hill has been quite ill the past two months with lumbago. Being unable to obtain relief and having heard of the wonderful curative powers of the warm mineral springs on Capt. Boyes' Agua Rica ranch, near this place, he visited the springs last week and after taking several baths he says that he feels like a new man. The medical properties of these springs are well-known to all the old residents of this valley, and fifty years ago, when the late Gen. Vallejo first located here, it is said that the Indians for hundreds of miles around resorted to Agua Rica annually to seek medical relief in the waters of its hot mineral springs.

No man who has the interests of his country at heart, should fail to subscribe for his home paper, remarks an exchange. In encouraging its publication he is assisting in building up about him enterprise, the success of which at the same time enhances the value of his own surroundings. It gives him more news of immediate concern than the big city papers, it talks for him; he always has a champion in his home paper, and those who stand up for another, should be well sustained. The interests of both are kindred and equal, and must rise and fall together. Therefore it is to the interests of every one to support the home paper. But for all that there are some paper-owners we know of in this town who are too small to subscribe for the INDEX-TRIBUNE, but actually filch or sponge it off their poor neighbors, who own neither houses or land. He is a poor citizen indeed who cannot afford to invest $2.50 per year, which is less than 5 cents per week, to sustain the paper that can always be relied upon to stand up for the rights of Sonoma and its people and at the same time furnish him and the outside world with local happenings that are alone worth twice the subscription price of the paper.

HON. J. K. LUTTRELL DEAD.

He Passes Away in Far Away Alaska on October 4th.

Hon. J. K. Luttrell of this valley, who was recently appointed by the President, Commissioner to Alaska, where he went a few months ago to enter upon the discharge of his new duties, died in Sitka on October 4th of Bright's disease of the kidneys.

The news of Mr. Luttrell's death will be received with sorrow by every one in Sonoma Valley, who had the pleasure of being acquainted with him. Kind-hearted, big souled and a man whose generosity knew no bounds Mr. Luttrell was truly one of God's noblemen. A man of large and commanding presence, a forcible speaker and possessed of a magnetism that drew men toward him he was a leader among his fellows.

He served several terms in the California Legislature, and was three times elected to Congress from this district and made an honorable record. He was also at one time a Judge of Alameda county and a few years ago was a Director of California Prisons.

Mr. Luttrell during his stay in Washington as Congressman made many warm personal friends among the great men of our country. He was greatly liked and respected by the late Hon. Jas. G. Blaine, who although a Republican, saw much to admire in the big fascinating dark-eyed Democratic Congressman from California. Among others who were great friends of Mr. Luttrell, were President Cleveland and John G. Carlisle of Kentucky.

J. K. Luttrell was a native of Tennessee, having been born in Knox county on the 27th of June, 1831. He came to California in the early fifties and engaged in mining in Siskiyou county. Later on he removed to his ranch near Sonoma, and in 1872 was elected to Congress, was re-elected in 1875 and returned in 1877.

For the ten years previous to being called to Alaska he had resided on his farm beloved and respected by his neighbors for miles around, and many a mountaineer and settler in the hills over-looking the valley which Mr. Luttrell loved so well, will shed a silent tear when they learn of the death of their kind friend and neighbor.

The remains, which were forwarded from Alaska, were interred at Fort Jones, Siskiyou county, last Sunday.

A FREE FIGHT.

The Laffertys on the One Side and Three Santa Rosa Pugilists on the Other.

A free fight occurred in Santa Rosa one day last week between H. C. Lafferty and his son Claude Lafferty of Glen Ellen on the one side and Ben Boyd, Bob Glenn and a man named Swank of Santa Rosa on the other. The fight, which took place in Star & Eagle's stable, originated over the payment of a livery bill. It is said that Boyd and Glenn double-teamed on old man Lafferty, while young Lafferty and Swank contended single-handed for the mastery.

During the melee Boyd ran against the old man's fist and got a black eye, while the others were more or less bruised up.

An officer appeared on the scene and succeeded in separating the combatants and as old man Lafferty was a stranger in town he was arrested on general principles and dragged off to jail. The Laffertys haven't a vote in Santa Rosa. See?

Sad Death.

Mrs. E. H. Mann, wife of Ed. Mann, died at her home in Glen Ellen last Wednesday afternoon of consumption after an illness of several months. The deceased was only 21 years of age. She leaves a husband and a two-year-old little girl and a mother and sister to mourn her untimely taking off. The funeral took place yesterday and a large concourse of relatives and friends followed the remains to their last resting place amid Sonoma's last city of the dead in Mountain Cemetery.

A Success.

The fair given by the ladies of the Congregational Church, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings of this week, was well attended and proved a social as well as a financial success. The programmes of the above evenings were excellent and well rendered.

The Latest Appointment.

Paul Luttrell, the son of the late Hon. J. K. Luttrell, has been appointed special agent of the United States Treasury Department in charge of the salmon fisheries of Alaska. The young man is well known here and his many friends will be pleased to hear of his good fortune.

JOHN AUSTIN.

The Ex-Postmaster of Agua Caliente Missing.

John Austin, ex-Postmaster of Agua Caliente, who was arrested a couple of months ago charged with opening a letter addressed to one of the patrons of his office, and who was shortly afterwards released on $500 bonds, has disappeared.

The supposition is that he has run away to avoid a trial, but this is not known to a certainty.

Mrs. Austin, wife of the missing man, who lives with her three little children at Agua Caliente and is now conducting the store owned by herself and husband, was interviewed yesterday by an INDEX-TRIBUNE reporter. She stated that Mr. Austin wrote her about three weeks ago that he would return home from San Francisco the next day. But from that day to this she has never heard from him, and the poor woman is almost distracted. She said she would believe that he would desert her and their three little ones and a home and business that is free from debt, and fears something has befallen him. She says that if alive he surely would communicate with her. In the meantime she is hoping and praying for some clue that will lead to his whereabouts. She does not think he has committed suicide.

AN ENGINE'S PLUNGE.

Head Foremost into an Open Drawbridge—Nobody Hurt.

On Sunday morning about 9 o'clock as the north bound passenger train on the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway, to which was attached an engine, tender and several coaches, was slowly approaching the drawbridge at the Brickyards, about five miles south of San Rafael, the engineer discovered that the drawbridge was open to admit the passage of a scow loaded with brick.

He immediately reversed the engine and applied the air brakes, which, however, failed to bring the train to a standstill. He then whistled for the hand brakes, which were also applied, but there being a heavy down grade at that point the engine was pushed slowly ahead by the cars behind and plunged headforemost into the shallow creek below.

The engineer and firemen saved themselves by jumping and escaped with a mud bath. The passenger cars remained upon the track and no one was injured.

A wrecking car was sent to the scene of the accident and it took all day Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday to remove the wrecked engine.

In consequence of the accident the north-bound freight was delayed three days, otherwise little or no inconvenience was suffered by the patrons of the road owing to the accident.

The Donahue railroad is exceedingly cautious in running its trains and every precaution is taken to prevent accidents. Had this not been so that of Sunday would have been more serious. Had an accident under similar circumstances taken place in the East, where trains appear to be run recklessly, it would have been attended, no doubt, with great loss of life.

THE SEDUCTION CASE.

Accused Held to Answer Before the Superior Court.

The examination of Robt. Maggetti, charged with seduction by Carrie Bacala, was concluded in Justice Cheney's court Thursday. Counsel for accused, attorney J. P. Rodgers of Petaluma, one of the best criminal lawyers in Northern California, after the examination of witnesses had been concluded moved for a dismissal of the charge against his client. Assistant District Attorney Leppo resisted the motion.

Judge Cheney, after listening patiently to argument of counsel on both sides, held Maggetti to answer before the Superior Court on a charge of seduction with bail fixed at $500.

Bail was readily furnished by the young man, who has an excellent reputation. His sureties are J. Fochetti and A. Pinelli.

Another Relic of the Boom.

The Isabella Mutch place, consisting of fourteen acres of land in the western part of town, will be sold at Sheriff's sale to foreclose a mortgage of $2,780 on Tuesday, November 14th. This property was bought by Philip Phipper during the "boom" excitement some years ago, who paid several thousand dollars down on the purchase price as part payment, and mortgaged the property for the balance.

If you don't take the INDEX-TRIBUNE you don't get the local news.

If some grocers urge another baking powder upon you in place of the "Royal," it is because of the greater profit upon it. This of itself is evidence of the superiority of the "Royal." To give greater profit the other must be a lower cost powder, and to cost less it must be made with cheaper and inferior materials, and thus, though selling for the same, give less value to the consumer.

A Medical Firm Gives Away Cash.

J. F. Smith & Co. of No. 265 Greenwich St., New York, the manufacturers of that favorite cathartic known as Smith's Blue Beans, have adopted a novel plan. They ask the individual buyers of Blue Beans to send their full name and address, with an outside wrapper from a bottle of Blue Beans (either size) to their office, and they give $5 for the first wrapper received in each morning's mail, and $1 for the 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th. Every day $10 in cash is thus sent to their correspondents. Ask for SMALL size.
